From The Desk of Rabbi Steinberg

WHAT shall we look for in selecting our new associate or assistant rabbi?

He must, of course, be a rabbi, a competent preacher, a devoted pastor, an informed and ardent Jew. Our congregation has grown so large that, even were I well, its ministry would be beyond the powers of one man. Given the existent limitations on my activities, our need for a second rabbi is incontrovertible.

But what kind of a rabbi? What ought to be his special aptitudes and interests? To answer that question, let us consider what may be the largest voids, the most urgent lacks, in our present program. Where are we most clearly deficient as a Synagogue?

1. The Religious School

Until we acquire a new building with proper classrooms, our school will never be everything that it should be. Even now, it is a good school, remarkably so in view of the disabilities under which it functions. It enjoys most competent administration at the hands of our School Board, under the Chairmanship of Mrs. Israel B. Oseas, and on the part of our principal, Mr. Martin Leichtling. It is a good school, but, let us be candid in the matter, it could be better. Its curriculum has long needed review; it has of late not experimented with new contents and techniques; it requires vigorous inspiring. All in all much must be done before the School is equal either to our expectations or the status of our Synagogue in other fields. But these are rabbinic tasks, tasks beyond the competence of lay Boards and principals. They constitute the first requirement of our new rabbi: he must be capable, willing, eager to assume just such duties.

2. The High School

Where once we had a High School Department of three or more classes, there is now, except for a pair of informal seminars which I conduct, no High School Department at all. Which means that we are consistently losing our youth just at the age when they become most impressionable.

3. Clubs

Our club program has disintegrated almost into nothingness (the teen-age dances make a notable exception) for want of a philosophy and the attentive application of it. As a result, we are failing not only to open up to our youngsters the outlets they require, we are allowing them to drift to other congregations which minister more successfully to the interests of young people.

4. Collegiate Activities

Not in several years has there been in our midst an established organization of our young people of college age. What a proper organization on this level can mean to a Synagogue is discernible in our Junior League, which grew to its present active role in our life through the club and collegiate stages.

5. Adult Education

Our program in this field stands at the parting of ways. Our old techniques, so long successful, now seem played out. Yet given our past record of achievement, our present membership, the vigor and resourcefulness of our Committee on Adult Education, we can go on to conquer new worlds. Provided, we have a leader who has new, creative ideas to contribute, who holds them fervently and is able to see them through.

6. Guest Speakers

Between such prestige as our pulpit enjoys and the budget for speakers at the disposal of the Committee on Adult Education, it ought to be possible for us to bring to our congregation and the larger community a succession of lecturers of distinction. Indeed, our pulpit ought to be a rostrum for every person who has anything of importance to say concerning Jews, Judaism and religion generally. Here once again we have been losing an opportunity of consequence to our Synagogue, ourselves as individuals and Jewish and religious life as a whole.

Such is the catalogue of our most

"Respite et Prospice"

With this issue THE BULLETIN marks the end of another year—its third. It has not been an easy job but the staff has always felt that the effort was worth the trouble. If in any way THE BULLETIN has helped to make the members of the Synagogue cognizant of the varied activities of the many organizations that make up the Synagogue, and, at the same time, has helped to bind the organizations together by giving wider coverage to their many programs, we feel we have performed our basic function.

We would like to thank the various contributors for their cooperation. But there still is one problem which must be faced. There are not enough people to do the work that has to be done, so that if THE BULLETIN is again to be able to serve the Congregation in the future as it has in the past we must have your very active cooperation and support. Can we count on you next year?

Torah Scholarship Fund

Mrs. Frank E. Cross, Chairman of the Torah Scholarship Fund of the Synagogue, has announced the opening of the annual drive. The money raised will be sent to the Jewish Theological Seminary to be used for the scholarship needs of its students as well as for the training program of the Seminary.

The standard contribution of $6.11, representing the total word value of the word Torah, may be multiplied as many times as desired. You are asked to make all checks payable to Torah Fund and sent to Mrs. Cross, 115 East 92nd Street, New York 28, N. Y. These contributions may be made in memory or in honor of a dear one and it will be recorded in that manner.

conspicuous lacks as a congregation which is also the catalogue of our brightest opportunities. From it only one conclusion is possible: our new rabbi must be a man to whom schools, classes, clubs, programs are a first love, a first duty, a first challenge. The man who fits these requirements is our man, no matter what else he may lack. The man who does not measure up to these specifications may possess every admirable trait otherwise, he will not answer our needs.

United Jewish Appeal

ous migration to Israel that is now taking place. With the aid of the UJA, approximately 25,000 homeless Jews from the DP camps of Europe, from Shanghai, and from North Africa, are arriving each month in Israel. If sufficient funds are raised, all the Jewish DP camps can be emptied by the end of this year. At least 250,000 Jews can be taken to Israel, and thousands more can find a home in America and in other lands.

The Park Avenue Synagogue Women's Committee for UJA is currently engaged in contacting directly, every woman of the Sisterhood, the Parents' Association, and the Young Marrieds Groups, for her contribution. The women of our Synagogue have always been magnificently generous in supporting this glorious cause. Last year we had the honor and distinction of raising more money than any other group of Synagogue women in greater New York. This can be a year of unparalleled growth and achievement for the Jews of the world, if each of us will accept her full responsibility for making it possible.

In addition to her husband's gift, each woman is asked to make her own personal contribution to "The Greatest Homecoming in History". We call upon all of you to give your fullest support to the 1949 United Jewish Appeal Campaign—to attend all the functions to which you are invited, and to give more than you have ever given before, to help end, at long last, the homelessness of our people overseas.

If a member of our committee has not contacted you by the end of May, won't you please call Mrs. Ruth Brodsky, Chairman, at At 9-4096, or Mrs. Muriel Morse, Co-Chairman, at At 9-1322.

Progress Report by Parents' Association

At the invitation of the Editor, the Parents' Association respectfully submits a report of its activities for the year, with justifiable pride, not only in its accomplishments, but in the selfless and unstinting effort of the many men and women who gave so much of their time and interest to the progress of the Association. Under the inspired leadership of its President, Mrs. Abram Blau,—the officers, the chairmen and members of all committees, and the newly organized class mothers worked zealously, harmoniously, and without interest in personal glory.

Because the work, this year, was shared by a large body of parents, it naturally followed that interest in the religious education of the children was aroused in a greater number of parents who enjoyed a close bond with the Rabbi, Principal, and teachers.

Through the cooperation of the School Board, the Parents rejoiced this year, in the realization of its hope for a trained educator as a full time principal of the religious school. We are grateful for our good fortune in the selection of Mr. Martin Leichtling for this position.

The Parents Association gave expression this year, to its desire for a closer affiliation with other arms of the Synagogue, in recognition of the value of working together for common interests. In this connection, the Parents' Association is proud of its success in having a voice on the Advisory Council. The Association is enormously encouraged by the evidences of support from the Sisterhood and other affiliated groups of the Synagogue in its campaign to educate the congregation at large, to the need for a new school building and community center. The committee engaged in this activity will continue to further intense interest in this vital need.

The programs for our meetings were planned in general recognition of requests from the Parents themselves. This fact, combined with the eminence of our speakers, resulted in splendid attendance at our open meetings, and consequently, in a broadening in the scope of understanding of the position of the school in relation to the child and his development.

Three teen-age dances were held this year, in an experimental endeavor to

School Observes Israel Celebration

The Religious School assembly program of May 15th observed the first anniversary of the establishment of the State of Israel.

The girls of the upper grades of the school presented, under the direction of Miss Bat-Ari, a dance recital, entitled "The Birth of Israel." Michele Kaye and Arthur Jacobs, of class 7, spoke on "The Significance of the Establishment of Israel" and "The American Jew and Israel".

stimulate the interest of our children in social activities within the Synagogue.

A fourth dance is being planned by and for the Seminar Groups, under the supervision of the Parents' Association, and the dances next year will be planned in the light of this year's experience.

The Library Committee culminated four years of effort by turning over to the school, a well organized, well stocked library of books of Jewish interest for children, teachers and parents.

Among the most meaningful of our contributions to the welfare of our children, was made by the committee for Holiday Observances. The religious instruction of the classroom was supplemented and complimented by gifts and food appropriate to each of the religious holidays. The committee was also responsible for the education of parents in carrying out traditions and observances in the home.

This was the year that marked the first successful organization and operation of Class Mothers. "A Night of Games" served as a necessary link in cementing closer relationships among parents, in adding new members to our working groups, and in bringing into social contact with us, members of Sisterhood, the Board of Trustees, the Junior League and the Mens' Club.

Best wishes for success are extended to the officers elected to serve next year: Mrs. Seymour Wimpfheimer, President; Mrs. Theodore Kaplan, 1st Vice-President; Mr. Abraham Kirshon, 2nd Vice-President; Mrs. I. E. Gevirtz, 3rd Vice-President; Mrs. Joseph Druss, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Milton Helpert, Corresponding Secretary; Mr. Bernard Weintraub, Treasurer; Mrs. Bruno Foa and Mr. I. Gevirtz, UPTA Delegates.
